^①Have you ever smelled the nice, fresh air in a forest? ^②That smell comes from phytoncides! ^③Phytoncides are a kind of natural scent produced by trees. ^④Trees and plants make phytoncides to protect themselves. ^⑤The word phytoncide comes from Greek. ^⑥*Phyton* means “plant,” and cide means “to kill.”

^⑦Phytoncides help plants keep bugs, bad germs, and mold away. ^⑧They also stop other plants from growing too close, so each tree has space to grow well. ^⑨Phytoncides are also good for humans! ^⑩When we breathe in phytoncides, they help us feel calm and happy.

^⑪They also make our immune cells more active. ^⑫These cells fight viruses and help us stay healthy. ^⑬So, spending time in the forest makes us healthier and happier. ^⑭The forest is like a healing place!
