^①A few years ago, a big fire burned the mountains in Andong, South Korea. ^②The fire lasted three days and destroyed most of the trees. ^③People wanted to make the mountains turn green again, so they came up with a clever idea—they used pet dogs!

^④They got this idea from Chile. ^⑤In 2017, two sisters helped a burned forest by letting their dogs run with seed bags. ^⑥Following the example from Chile, people in Korea held their own event, and many dog owners joined. ^⑦They tied small bags of seeds around their dogs' necks. ^⑧The bags had tiny holes, so the seeds fell as the dogs ran.

^⑨Some people called them “Santa Dogs” because they gave gifts to nature, like Santa.

^⑩These dogs helped bring life back to the burned forest. ^⑪Soon, the seeds will grow into trees, and in a few years, the mountains will be green again!
