¹Every country has its own way of having conversations. ²These different styles can be compared to sports.

³Japanese conversations are like bowling. ⁴Each person waits for their turn, just like a bowler. ⁵Even if there are long pauses, others rarely interrupt. ⁶American conversations are like basketball. ⁷If someone hesitates, another person might break in. ⁸It is like when basketball players steal the ball. ⁹Italian conversations are like rugby. ¹⁰Italians use lots of hand gestures, just like rugby players. ¹¹They often interrupt each other, but they see this as a sign of interest, not as rudeness.

¹²Each culture has its own way of communicating. ¹³When you talk with foreign friends, watch how they “play ball” and try to understand their styles and respect the differences.
